

For the Farmer.

Farmers' Wives - Why Have They Poor Health?

It seems now to be generally conceded, that this class of our countrywomen, through some cause, have come to a state of general poor health; and this sad state of affairs is mostly attributed to over work. This, no doubt, in some cases, has a share in the evil; but I am more inclined to ascribe the general debility and much sickness amongst us of the rural districts to cooking stoves in unventilated kitchens, and close apartments. A little observation will show that this poor health is by no means confined to the wives of farmers, but extends also to the families of a large portion of our communities—all those in fact who occupy houses built with small, close chimney flues, instead of the old fashioned open fire-places, and who sleep in small apartments, with close windows, and with no arrangement for the supply of fresh air through the night hours—except the occasional opening of a door.

The women of our times do not work any harder than did their grandmothers; but their toil was pursued near the great open fire-place, where a constant change of air was going on; and consequently they never felt the exhaustion that our women suffer, shut up with "a red hot demon" of a stove, which itself is consuming the vital air at the rate of a hoghead every minute, and for the supply of which provision is seldom made—where do you find a house that has any sensible arrangement by which fresh, pure air is introduced continuously? Do people know that air which has once passed through the lungs, is not only incapable of supporting life, but is absolutely poisonous! Do they know that air is more necessary to existence than food? Life can be sustained without food for many days, but without air not one minute. If any one questions the absolute need of pure air to maintain health, let him observe the condition of any person who lives in a vitiated atmosphere. Look at the men and boys in stores and shops where there is stove heat and no ventilation—how sickly, pale and dyspeptic they soon become. "Farmer's wives" are not more miserable and weak.

Examine the majority of sleeping rooms in any country village or neighborhood. Small, close "seven by nine" closets—with generally but one window, and that carefully closed to exclude the dangerous night air, as if there was any better air than that provided by the Great Creator, for our use during the night hours. If a door is left open, it is probably into the kitchen or sitting room where stoves and lamps and human breaths have combined to create a poisonous condition of the atmosphere during the day and evening.

Is it wonderful that, under such circumstances, sleep is disturbed and unrefreshing? that children are restless and fretful? and that daylight finds the mother more tired and languid than when she lay down to rest.

The men and boys of the family suffer less because they are in pure air outside all day, and the poison is thus eliminated from their systems. Otherwise they too would sink under such a course of "blood poisoning;" for it is into the blood this atmospheric poison works, as it is again and again passed through the lungs.

An eminent physician, in a work entitled "How not to be Sick," attributes the poor health and poor teeth of Americans to "the excessive use of fine flour, butter and sugar," leaving out the strengthening phosphates and nitrates contained in the bran and buttermilk, which are given to our pigs. Combine with unwholesome, heating food, the unwholesome air we breathe, and what wonder that we have become a race of pale dyspeptics, with false teeth and contracted chests. Unwholesome food and vitiated air poison the springs of life at their very source; and unless a radical change is made in our modes of building and living, the prospect is a sad one for our children.

A VALUABLE SECRET.—A laundress gives us the following receipt for doing up shirt bosoms. Any lady who desires to make home happy, will do well to try the experiment. It will be found a sovereign antidote to that serious stuff which weighs upon the heart—an ill ironed and ill-fitted shirt bosom: Take 2 ounces of fine gum arabic powder; put in a pitcher, and pour on a pint or more of water, and then, having covered it let it stand all night. In the morning pour it carefully from the dregs into a clean bottle, and cork and keep it for use. A table spoonful of gum water stirred in a pint of starch, made in the usual manner, will give to lawn, either white or printed, a look of newness, when nothing else can restore them after they have been washed.

Thorough drainage, deep plowing, a liberal use of manure, and good cultivation, cannot fail to produce remunerative, bountiful harvests.

One of the aims in farming should be to produce as far as possible, everything you consume, to buy nothing you can raise yourself.

Prepare for a hard winter.

We extracted every tree and stump as we passed, large and small. We now offer it to the citizens of Lawrence, Pike, Penn. Bedford and Washen townships. We will sell the right upon all single trunks of fruit or any person wishing a machine this summer, we will deliver the same on the farm of the purchaser, and give satisfaction for his satisfaction for $200.00 with terms liberal. W. P. TATE, Address—Tate & Brown, P. O. CLEARFIELD, Pa. [Jan. 16-2m.]

ATTENTION!—PRESERVE THE FRUIT TREES. Curwensville, wood-borer, and all other insects are destructive to fruit trees, successfully prevented from committing their ravages on orchards. The tender vine and ornamental tree alike, are preserved in root, body branch, and bud from the attack of any kind of vermin or insect, by "Fisher's" new and useful process for preventing the borer or other insects from injuring fruit trees, shade and ornamental trees, shrubs and vines. Patented September 12th, 1866.

This remarkable invention has been tested in the most thorough manner, and has in every instance given the most conclusive proofs of its merits. In no case has it failed to prove itself a perfect and complete protection against the various kinds of insects that for years past have been preying upon all single trunks of fruit and fruit trees. Testimonials furnished if desired.

Individual and township rights can be had upon application to D. BRESLENE, for his location on Clearfield county, Pa., who is agent for Clearfield county. [June 25, 1869-3 m p]
